SPREADING RAPIDLY.

Garza's Revolutionary Movement Gaining Strength—Mexico Alarmed.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex , Jan. 22.—Private advices received here yesterday from the lower part of the Rio Grande border are to the effect that the excitement there over the Garza revolutionary movement, instead of decreasing, is spreading among the people and the plotters against the administration of President Diaz are gaining in number rapidly. In the meantime the United States troops and federal authorities will continue to exercise their vigilance while the Mexican government is anxiously awaiting the expected revolt to be started on a formidable scale.

THE FATAL OIL LAMP.

Mrs. Collins Upsets One in Her Lap and is Burned to Death.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Jan 22.—Mrs Geo Collins, who with her husband and four children removed from Mobile to this city a few days ago, was burned to death here Wednesday night. She was seated by a table when the lamp was accidentally overturned. It fell into her lap and the burning oil ran over her clothing, which were quickly ignited. Mrs. Collins ran screaming into the street, completely wrapped in flames. Several pedestrians ran to her assistance, but were too late to be of service and her body was burned to a crisp. She died within an hour.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER.

The Indianapolis Surgical Institute a Mass of Ruins and Twenty Crisp Bodies Now Await Identification.

The Heartrending Scenes of the Catastrophe Graphically Described by an Eye Witness.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan 22.—The Indiana Surgical Institute burned last night, the flames breaking out just before midnight in the old annex, a block separated from the main building by just a narrow space. Before the fire was discovered the whole interior was a blaze. The institute had about 500 inmates most of whom were helpless cripples When the fire department arrived the windows were full of screaming moaning cripples and the scene was one of horror beyond description. The work of rescue was begun at once with ladders, and the inmates were removed with great rapidity, but at least thirty were injured, some terribly

In the confusion and excitement it is almost impossible to get names, but some of the worst hurt are Mrs. Gales, of Madison, Ind , fell from a ladder with a child in her arms, internally injured, Kate Elstrange, Indianapolis, fatally burned; Mrs. Thomas, Indianapolis, fatally burned, recovery doubtful There is a story that fifteen or more invalids in the annex were suffocated, but this cannot be verified or disproven The patients were carried to various hospitals and hotels as fast as rescued and nobody knows who is missing One girl was seen to come to a window and a moment later fall back into the flames After the fire had been in progress half an hour twenty women were found standing on a rear roof just ready to jump They had escaped during the confusion, though screaming at the top of their voices. They were rescued in safety.

The list of the injured is as follows: Mary Stearns, Warren, Iowa, burned about feet, Clara Morris, address unknown, back injured, Grant Van Hoesen, Althena, N. Y., hand and ear burned, Clarence Mead, Athens, N. Y., leg hurt; William H Albach, Dunkirk, N. Y., burned; Leora Knowles, Independence, Ind., back hurt in jumping; W. W. Snyder, Troy, Ohio, internally injured, falling from window; Will Mansfield, Otsego, N. Y., foot hurt in jumping, Mrs John S. Stokes, Danville, Ill , ankle sprained; Nellie Mason, Walworth county, Wis., jumped from third story and will die; Mrs. Lazarus, of Texas, jumped from third story and will die, Mrs. G. J. Simpson and child seriously burned, R. Conner, fell through a hole in the floor, fatally hurt, May Beelinger, of Indianapolis, terribly burned.

At 3 o'clock this morning the firemen found six dead in the annex, burned beyond recognition. It is feared that possibly as many as fifteen were suffocated by the smoke and perished in the flames in the annex.

A terrible responsibility rests upon the owners of the institute. It was a veritable fire trap The old annex and main building were nothing more or less than old fashioned four story business blocks, the main building at the corner of Georgia and Illinois streets and the annex immediately east of it, fronting on Georgia street. The halls were narrow, as were also the stairways. There were no proper exits to convert to use in case of fire. The fire originated in the second floor of the east annex, near the east wall, and burned that building, spreading from it to the main building. The patients in the main building were all gotten out amid indescribable scenes of excitement and horror. Many were rescued from the annex and it is hoped that all were gotten out, yet it is feared that several were lost. Up to 3 o'clock this morning sixteen dead bodies have been found in the burning building. They are burned past recognition

LATER REPORT.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—What has been expected for years came upon the city at midnight last night. Box "92" is one which always tells a story of disaster and fatality. Shortly before midnight an alarm with the significant figures "92" was rung all over the city and when by followed a second, third, fourth call, brought people streaming from all quarters of the city. Nearly all had the same thought: Surgical institute, long known as one of the oldest and most dangerous buildings in the city, was the scene of the fire. That the building was a fire trap was established by the investigation of Chief Webster only two weeks ago, when he told the proprieter, Dr. H. R Allen, that the building was unsafe, especially for the purpose for which it was used. Webster says that he expected just such a disaster for years, that the delay in sending in the alarm last night is largely responsible for the loss of life which ensued. This morning the Surgical Institute is in ruins and the part of the building in which 194 helpless human beings were domiciled is a charnel house At the present (10 o'clock) there are nineteen bodies, all of whom are identified, and a number are reported missing. From all that can be ascertained it is probable that the fire originated in the room where the printing matter, circulars, etc., were kept. This was on the ground floor in the rear of the main building Mrs Copeland, one of the rescued attendants, said that an hour before the alarm of fire was turned in, the night watchman came to her room and asked her if she was burning paper She told him she was not, and in a few minutes he again asked her. This proves that the fire had been smouldering for some time When the department arrived and turned in on Georgia street the scene that was presented beggared description. From the second, third and fourth story windows, women clad in their flowing night robes were clinging, crying out in their horror and desperation in their efforts to escape death from the roaring, crackling flames or jump to the ground below. The scene as it appeared to those who first reached the place of destruction is not one that will ever be forgotten Its like was never seen in this city before. The flames as they burst from the annex and gradually encroached on the main building shed a lurid light over the surrounding buildings and cast a dark shadow below. And above the furious roar of the flames as they licked up everything in their pathway, could be heard the awful screams and agonizing groans of the poor, tortured human beings, who clung to the window sills with their bare fingers Strong arms were soon to the rescue and words of encouragement were spoken to those above Ladders were raised to the windows and the work of rescuing in the rear end building began It was here that the flames raged most furiously and it was necessary to get the inmates down without delay. In a very few minutes all those who had been seen at the windows when the firemen first arrived, had been rescued, but while the work was going on one or two women, driven to desperation by the fierce heat and the thought of a horrible death, leaped to the ground, possibly to receive injuries from which they can not recover There were volunteers by the hundreds, brave men who risked their lives time and time again In the brief period of fifteen minutes to save the lives of poor crippled children, who arouse the pity in the human heart at any time, but the sight of whom, in the midst of last night's fearful holocaust, caused strong men to shudder and grow sick at heart The ones rescued were carried to temporary refuge and placed under the care of kind hands where the best physicians of the city were ready to lend their aid The list of dead and injured, identified, at 11 o'clock is as follows

Irma Paine, aged eighteen, Dexter, Mo.; Minnie Arnold, aged seventeen, Lancaster, Mo.; William Ramsak, aged seventeen, Milwaukee, Mrs E. Beard and child, Mrs. Lasarus, Chicago; Stella Spierele, G. M. Ellis, aged forty; Kate L. Straughan, relatives at 184 Massachusetts avenue, Mrs. Burns and nephew, St. Paul, Minn., and Fannie Breeden, Memphis, Tenn

Missing—Mrs. M. K. Lump, Arthur Bayless, Minnie McDonald, Fred Dackendorff.

Injured—Minnie Lasarus, aged seven, leg broken; Mrs. H. H. Idens and son, both severely injured; Mrs Thomas, 198 Massachusetts avenue, burned about the face and body, in terrible agony; Fannie Breeden, Memphis, Tenn., burned in a dozen places; Mrs. J. R. Guild, Medaryville, Ind , internally injured by a fall from the ladder, probably fatally; Mary Stearns, Warren, Ia., terribly burned about the feet in running out into the burning hallway of the building, Clara Morris, home not given, hurt in back, Grant Van Hoesen, Athens, N. Y., hand and ear burned; Clarence Mead, Athens, N. Y., leg slightly hurt; William H. Albach, Dunkirk, N. Y., slightly burned; Leora Knowles, Independence, Ind., back hurt by jumping out of third-story window; M. W. Wydner, Troy, Ohio, internally injured by falling out of a window while trying to escape, William Mansfield, Otsego, N. Y., foot hurt while jumping from roof to roof till he reached the ground; Mrs John S. Stokes, Danville, Ill , sprained ankle, Nellie Mason, of Walworth county, Wis , jumped out of a third-story window in the front part of the building and will die from her injuries; Mrs. C. J. Simpson and little girl were carried out by the firemen, and both were severely burned by the fire; R. Connor fell from the second to the first floor and received serious, if not fatal, internal injuries; W. M. Widner, Miami county, Ohio, terribly crushed and fatally injured; Roy Harris, New Orleans, not seriously C. H German, McDonald, Mich.; Hannah Brock, Taylorsville, Ill ; Frank Dockendorf, Stillwater, Minn.; Minnie McDonald, Nagaunee, Mich.

Soon after daylight this morning people began to gather at the scene of the holocaust. To picture all that transpired around about the burned building from that time on would be as difficult as to record with minuteness all the scenes and incidents of the fire itself. Upon the arrival of the day police a guard line was thrown out to keep the public away from the building, a strong guard of officers kept back the crowd, which had from 7:30 o'clock swelled to the thousands Only the police, firemen, the reporters and other persons who had special business were allowed inside the line By 7 o'clock the news of the fire had spread all over the city and hundreds of persons who had relatives or acquaintances in the institution began to join the vast crowd. They pushed themselves to the cafe and begged the policemen for information as to those in whom they were interested After they had gained all the information they could they made the rounds of the morgue and stood with blanched faces while tender hands turned back coverings revealing faces and bodies burned to a crisp. The limbs of the unfortunates was touched in hopes of discovering means which would make recognition possible It was a difficult task to identify many of the bodies and more than one person turned away with the remark "I can't tell whether it is the one I knew or not."

Visitors crowded into the institute annex over the Weddell house and hastily looked over the dreadful row of unfortunates in hopes of recognizing the one they knew. If the loved one could not be found there was a wail of grief and another search among the dead. While all this was transpiring the firemen the police and volunteer citizens were prosecuting the search in the ruins for more bodies It was a dangerous task The old shell of a building gutted by fire, trembled as the men walked, and there was danger connected with every step they took But brave men know no danger under such circumstances The search was begun in the upper rooms of the east wing of the building and was soon rewarded by the taking out of four bodies burned to a crisp. The upper rooms thoroughly searched, Chief Webster gave directions that the lower floor and cellars should be the next searched At 9 o'clock the dangerous task of removing the bodies began. The floors tottered under the feet of the workmen. The frail frame work above their heads trembled as water dripped down upon them, until they were wet through, but they did not halt for the search of the unfortunates, who were believed to be in the cellar. Many persons who were anxious about the missing, crowded into the building while the searchers were at work. The little box bed rooms were explored and every article of wearing apparel and furniture examined in hopes of getting some trace of missing ones. One young man who had a relative, a little girl, missing, climbed into the floor of the rear of the east window to look for evidence of the body of the one he knew. On his way over the roof, connecting the north and south-east wings, he stumbled over a pair of braces. He picked them up, and looking at them, said: "Those are her braces; where can she be?" A little bit afterward the body of the one whom he was looking for was taken from under a pile of debris, a blackened and almost unrecognizable mass Many pairs of braces were unearthed in the ruins, showing that some of the unfortunates in their effort to escape had unloosened their braces and thrown them away. The police took possession of the trunks and many valuables that were left in some of the rooms undestroyed. The patients nearly all had considerable money with them, which was left in the rooms in their haste to fly. During the forenoon four or five pocket books were found by the officers. In some of the books were as much as $150. All of these valuables were turned over to the officers of the institution.

Thousands of people stood in the snow outside of the ropes, watching the rescuers from a distance. In the Tallrido buildings stood wood wagons and beside them were coffins awaiting the recovery of more dead. When other men were halting, Sergeant John Lowe took the Four's chemical and made his way through smoke to the third floor. Opening a door he found a woman and a baby.

"For God's sake, save the child, if not me," she said. Lowe took the child in his arms, and told the woman to follow. When the two reached the landing the smoke and flames were upon them The woman, overcome with fright, jumped and was saved. Sergeant Lowe, blinded by smoke, lost his footing and fell half way down the stairway, but he held on to the child, and brought it safely to the ground.

IMPORTANT PETITION.

The County Commissioners Asked to Remove Penalty From Road Taxes.

The county commissioners are considering a petition of interesting importance to persons coming under the tax of the Illinois road. It prays for the removal of the penalty on such taxes on the road as have been running delinquent for years. There are many persons in arrears for these taxes and consequently the decision of the commissioners is anxiously awaited. It is thought the petition will be granted.

TOMMY WARREN DEFEATED.

Knocked Out in the Ninth Round by Geo. Siddons in a Fight for $1,500.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 22.—Tommy Warren and George Siddons, featherweights, had a five-ounce-glove contest last night for a purse of $1,500, of which $300 went to the loser. Siddons knocked his opponent out in nine rounds and was awarded the purse.

SMALL BLAZE.

The Fire Department Summoned to the Diamond Hotel.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the fire department was summoned to the Diamond hotel where a small blaze had started at the rear of the building.

There was much smoke but little fire, and it did not take long for the chemical engine to put an end to the blaze.

The Pope's Health is Good.

ROME, Jan 22.—The Pope is attending to his usual routine busines today and received visitors. Physicians remain to Vatican, however, in case of their services being needed.

Chicago's Water Supply All Right.

CHICAGO, Jan 22.—At 6 o'clock last evening the workmen succeeded in clearing the crib and tunnel of all ice and all danger of a water famine in this city is now past.

A Wichita Hotel Burns.

WICHITA, Kas., Jan 22.—Fire last night destroyed the Saratoga hotel at the stock yards. The loss is in the neighborhood of $14,000, including furniture; partially covered by insurance.

IMPUDENT CHILI.

She Has the Audacity to Hint that Minister Egan Must be Recalled Before She Accedes to Our Demands.

WASHINGTON, Jan 22.—The demand of the Chilian government for the recall of Minister Egan, which these dispatches last night stated was about to be made through Minster Montt, is not likely to be granted It can be said that under no circumstances will Mr. Egan be recalled while the relations between the United States and Chili are strained as at present President Harrison is entirely satisfied with Mr Egan's course as minister there, and has stated this repeatedly in private conversation. The Chilian minister to the United States is feeling his way to see how the question of the recall of Minister Egan would be received His government is ready to make a general suggestion of its willingness to cancel the offensive portion of the Matta circular, and if the ultimate findings of the Chilian courts regarding the Baltimore outrage are unsatisfactory to the United States, they will further consider what reparation is needed This is the substance of the whole proposition It means simply further delay and evasion and is not satisfactory to the demands of the United States

SAN DIEGO, Jan 22.—As coming from the Chilian foreign office it can be stated that when within the coming week the entire papers in the Baltimore case are in the possession of the Chilian government it will submit itself with its ideas to the United States government. Then if the two governments can not come to an agreement among themselves, arbitration will be asked by Chili on the question in dispute. Secretary Boseman assured the correspondent that from advices sent to Minister Montt, it can be asserted positively that matters between the countries are in an extremely fair way He looks for a speedy arrival at an amicable conclusion. Secretary Blaine, he says, has acted throughout in a conciliatory manner. It is the general opinion in government circles that the alarming messages wired abroad have been sent by interested parties with the intention of influencing the money market and lowering Chilian bonds and nitrate stocks.

NEW YORK, Jan 22.—The Sun this morning has this to say editorially: "We believe the work of the navy department and of the war department during the past six months is a marvel of administrative energy and patriotic vigilence, and yet it is this very activity, not inviting a conflict, but following the first principles of national prudence and ordinary laws of common sense, which furnishes the chief ground for mugwump attacks on men who are doing their duty. Consider these propositions. If war is averted and the government of Chili makes proper reparation for the Valparaiso outrage, it will be for no other reason than because we are ready. If war came, and in spite of the warning events of the past three months, the country were not prepared for the conflict, the men whom the non-Americans are now criticising for doing their duty would deserve to be impeached. They would deserve to be hanged. Go ahead, servants of the people. You are right Your work counts for peace and we are with you"

ANOTHER CROSSING TRAGEDY.

A Prominent Chicago Man Run Down and Killed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Ex-County Commissioner Adam Ochs is the latest victim of the deadly railway crossing. While driving across the Pan Handle tracks at May and Kinsil streets at 6:30 last evening, his cutter was struck by a passenger train. Mr Ochs was thrown twenty feet His skull was crushed in several places and his left leg was badly mashed. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital and died a few minutes after his arrival Ochs was a member of the famous boodle county board and served two years in the penitentiary

THE SILVER QUESTION.

It Will be the Subject of Discussion at an International Conference.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A special to the Herald from Washington says Minister Lincoln has been instructed to invite Great Britain to an international conference on the silver question, if, in his opinion, the feeling of the English cabinet is such as to justify the invitation The dissemination of this news about the capitol has caused great gratification among the silver men. The instructions to Minister Lincoln were dispatched by direction of the president ten days ago

DEATH OF A JURIST.

Joseph Bradley, of the Supreme Court, Dies at a Ripe Age.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Joseph F Bradley, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died at his residence at 6.15 o'clock this morning, of general debility. Justice Bradley was in the seventy-fifth year of his age.

Divorce From a Convict.

FRANKLIN, Jan 22.—One of the suits filed for the coming term of court is that of Sarah C Fender, of Edinburg, who seeks divorce from her husband, George W. Fender. The latter is serving a term of eighteen years in the prison south for the murder of Charles Winterburg, about two years ago

Mad Dog Runs Amuck.

PECKSBURG, Jan 22.—A dog belonging to Sil Mays went mad, and it caused quite an excitement in this locality. The animal ran for several miles, biting every dog it met, and several hogs were also bitten Danville people, especially, are requested to keep a sharp watch over their pets

HERE IS THE CALL.

Chairman Brice Issues the Call for the Democratic National Convention.

WASHINGTON, D C , Jan. 22 Chairman Brice today issued the following call for the democratic national convention

To all Democratic Committees

At a meeting held this day in the city of Washington, D. C , has appointed the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chosen the city of Chicago as the place for holding the national democratic convention. Each state is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of representatives to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates All democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the efforts to perfect an economical and constitutional government are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention

[Signed]
CALVIN S BRICE, Chairman
SIMON P SHEERIN, Secretary.

THREE MONTHS.

The Period Seemed to Hover Over the Careers of Three Judges.

COLUMBUS, Ind , Jan. 22 The death of Judge N R. Keys, of this city, has recalled the singular fatality that has overtaken his two immediate predecessors, Judges Hester and Carr. Hon. James S. Hester was appointed in 1873, and served three months, and was elected for a six-year term, but died three months before his term was out. Hon. Nathan T. Carr, of this city, was appointed to fill out his three months, and was elected for six years, but he, too, died three months before his term expired, and Hon. Nelson R. Keyes was appointed to fill out his three months' unexpired term, and was elected for six years, which he served, and was re-elected for six years more, but had only served three months on his second term when he, too, died

ABOUT A CLEAN SWEEP.

The New Republican State Committee are for Harrison.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan 22.—The republicans met in congressional conventions yesterday throughout Indiana to select members of the new state central committee. The Fifth and Seventh districts met in this city. The new committee embraces the following named gentlemen:

First district—J. A. Hemmingway, of Booneville.

Second district—J. C. Bilheimer, Washington.

Third district—S. E. Carter, Seymour.

Fourth district—A. E. Nowlin, Lawrenceburg

Fifth district—Jesse Overstreet, Franklin.

Sixth district—Frank Ellis, Muncie.

Seventh district—J. W Hess, Indianapolis

Eighth district—Nicholas Filbeck, Terre Haute.

Ninth district—C. C. Sherley, Kokomo.

Tenth district—Charles Hardy, Delphi.

Eleventh District—George Osborn, Marion.

Twelfth District—H. C. Hanna, Fort Wayne.

Thirteenth District—A L. Brick, South Bend.

The result is practically a clean sweep for the administration. The only doubtful members are Hemmingway, of the First, and Hanna, of the Twelfth, and as Hanna was the choice of the Harrison people as against Wilson, of Fort Wayne, who was an ultra-Blaine man, they are claiming him as a conservative who will assist in making the Indiana delegation to Minneapolis solidly for Harrison's renomination.

In twelve of the districts resolutions were adopted indorsing the administration of President Harrison. In the Thirteenth no resolutions of any kind were adopted, the convention rushing through its work as rapidly as possible in order that the delegates might catch home trains.

SIX HOURS WITHOUT GAS.

The Bloomingdale natural gas consumer who wasn't boiling over with wrath this morning was hard to find. For six long hours Bloomingdale homes were fireless At 1 o'clock this morning two natural gas men discovered a leak in the regulator, on Fifth street In order to hasten the repair of the leak, the gas connections were turned low and by an accidental movement on the part of the workman, the entire natural gas supply of the north side was shut off. The fires in all stoves in all the residences heated by the natural fluid were put out and homes rendered frigid in a very few moments

The gas could not be turned on again until all of the consumers were notified, and it was 7:30 o'clock before tea kettles commenced their merry song on kitchen stoves Many Bloomingdale people ate cold breakfasts this morning

Captain Kelsey, who was taken sick while sitting as juryman in the case of Rodemeyer vs. the city in the superior court, is lying very seriously ill at the Columbia hotel, on West Columbia street The jury was out all night and the captain remained in the jury room, lying on an improvised bed a great sufferer.

DULL IN THE COURTS.

But Little Doing Today—Rodemeier Gets a Judgment of $1,000 Against the City.

The police court scored a whitewash this morning

There was but little doing in the justice courts today

The circuit and superior courts are engaged in routine business of but little interest

Harvey Sprague and Della Potts, John Haudenschild and Sophia Kuenzler, Jos L. Ashton and Laura A. Luce have been licensed to wed

Chas Wery has brought suit in the superior court against John Barlets, the city of Fort Wayne and Helen Fleming administratrix, to quiet title to real estate Morris Bell, Barrett & Morris are attorneys for plaintiff

There will be no jury cases in the superior court until Monday.

Justice Hays is engaged in hearing the case of Christian Dunlap against Lucien Stapleford.

The will of Thomas Ahern has been filed with the county clerk He leaves his property for the education of his children and designates Rev. John F. Lang as administrator and guardian of his children

The case of Frederick Rodemier against the city of Fort Wayne, which has occupied the attention of the superior court for the last week, went to the jury yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock They were out all night, agreeing upon a verdict at 8 o'clock this morning. It was announced when court convened and found for the plaintiff in the sum of $600. The case grew out of an injury to Rodemier by being thrown off a truck and injured on Lafayette street The plaintiff claimed that the bad condition of the road superinduced the injury. Judge L. M. and H. W. Ninde represented the plaintiff, and Attorneys Alden and Shambaugh the city

James M. Bell and thirty-two other citizens of Center and Union townships, Clinton county, have joined in injunction proceedings restraining the county treasurer from collecting $57,000 taxes voted in aid of the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City railway, known as the "machine shop tax" While a number of reasons are alleged why the tax should not be collected, principal stress is laid upon the claim that the act of the general assembly under which the county commissioners operated in levying the tax is unconstitutional and void, because it embraces more than one subject not contained in the title thereof.

Judge Lotz, of the Delaware circuit court, has rendered a decision in the Scoville will case Ezra Scoville, a pioneer of Henry county, left an estate valued at $40,000 His second wife was a widow with children, and in his will Scoville bequeathed his property to her during lifetime, and after her death to be divided equally between his heirs and her heirs. The widow managed the estate with success, and upon her death it had increased in value to $150,000. The heirs could not agree upon a division of the increase in value after Scoville's death, and the courts were appealed to. The decision gives the increase to the children of the widow by first marriage, as well as one-half of the original estate.

Judge Dawson, of the superior court, has succeeded in securing Judge Comstock, of Richmond, to hear the suit for slander brought by Herman Michael against Frederick Eckart, Judge Frazier, of Warsaw, who had been chosen, being unable by reason of sickness to preside Judge Comstock will be in the city next Monday to make up the issues and set a day for a trial of the cause.

Albert Pratt, the alleged deserter from the United States army, who worked for Sheriff Viberg, was taken back to Columbus, Ohio, yesterday by an officer from the barracks. The penalty for desertion is two years in the military workhouse at Jefferson barracks at the southern outskirts of the city of St Louis

Hon R C. Bell and Mr S L Morris won an important suit in the Jay county circuit court yesterday. One of the townships of that county voted aid to the Lake Erie and Western road, but the commissioners declined to make a levy sufficient to meet the grant and yesterday the Jay county circuit court ordered them to collect the amount due the railroad company

A UNIQUE WILL.

It Provides For a Lottery of Property Among the Heirs.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan 22.—The will of Joseph Specht, who lately died, is a remarkable instrument Specht was a wealthy and eccentric German The strangest part of the document is the way that six houses are disposed of among ten children Numbers must be made for each one of the ten children and placed in a hat or box and shaken up Six of the tickets represent the six houses The children then draw from the hat and in this way the property is portioned out One of the provisions is that none of the property is to be sold for ten years

ALBERT NOT HOPELESS

Mrs. Leslie Interests Herself in His Behalf.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 22.—Albert Hope, the young poet, playwright and actor, in whom Mrs. Frank Leslie took so much interest, and who was sentenced for obtaining $250 from the First National bank of this city on a worthless check, drawn on the Broadway National bank of New York, withdrew his appeal to the supreme court yesterday. His object was to leave the governor free to pardon him, as extraordinary efforts are being put forth in that direction by influential men

IN HIS OLD AGE

Constant Voinet Follows His Wife Who Died a Week Ago—Deaths and Funerals.

Constant Voinet, a Frenchman residing in Washington township, died yesterday of old age His age was eighty-one years and six months. About a week ago his aged wife passed away after a brief sickness The funeral will take place tomorrow at 10 a. m. from Academie Catholic church There are no surviving children

TOOK HIM FOR A PREACHER.

Hugh Stewart Gets a Dinner for Half Price at Auburn.

The correspondent who wrote up the Auburn republican convention for the Indianapolis Sentinel is responsible for the following.

Uzziah Hugh Stewart, ex-postmaster of Monroeville, one of the delegates, went into a restaurant at Auburn and asked what they had for dinner; the proprietor said they had no meat and only one egg left.

"Fry that egg for me and I'll be back to eat it," said Mr. Stewart as he stepped out

When Mr Stewart returned he saw two farmers eating and at another table was the fried egg set out with bread and coffee

"This must be my dinner " said Stewart, taking a seat in front of the aforesaid egg

"I guess so," said one of the farmers. "The proprietor said a preacher had ordered it and would be back to eat it."

When Mr. Stewart stepped up to the counter to pay his bill the restauranter said-

"That lunch would be twenty cents to anybody else, but to the clergy half price; ten cents please "

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

John Smead Arrested for Misrepresentation—Now in Jail.

This afternoon Deputy Sheriff Tom Wilkinson arrested John Smead, jr , a young man, on the charge of forgery. Young Smead owed Dr A E VanBuskirk a doctor's bill and he paid it by giving a check for $25 on the Hamilton bank, purporting to be signed by his father. The doctor gave the young man $8.50 as change, but found the check to be worthless. Hence the arrest

Our cold weather is beginning to lose its hold.

The Chilian war cloud is fading away as sober senses come.

Chicago captured the democratic national convention. The winning presidential ticket will be named in that city on the 21st of June.

Harrison held the winning cards yesterday and got an indorsement in ten of the thirteen congressional district conventions held in Indiana.

The Cincinnati Enquirer publishes a poll of the presidential preferences of members of the Ohio legislature, as follows: Hill, 22; Cleveland, 8; Gorman, 1; Blaine, 13; Harrison, 16; McKinley, 1.

The Kendallville News has again changed hands, the plant having been purchased last week by Brook H. Bowman, the junior partner, and J. H. Baughman, a well known, young Kendallville democrat.

The republican county central committee will meet tomorrow to select a chairman. The following are candidates for the position: Ellen Dougharty, the present chairman, George Solliday, Captain T. W. Blair, W. J. Vesey, Clark Fairbank, Wilmer Leonard.

A very accurate index of the popular sentiment in regard to a declaration of war with Chili, is obtained through the letters that pour in upon Secretary Tracy from all parts of the country. Whereas ten days ago these indicated the developement of a decided war spirit, there seems to have been a change in the tone, and there is a growing disposition to urge the secretary to a conciliatory course.

President Harrison's message on the Chilian imbroglio has not only been completed, but it has been placed in type. The work has been done at the government printing office during the last few days, and was finished yesterday. There are about five thousand words in the message, and just as much care has been taken to prevent the possibility of its getting to the public in advance of its transmission to congress as is usually expended upon the annual message of the president.

Representative Roger Q. Mills, of Texas has written a letter to Speaker Crisp resigning his position as chairman of the committee on inter state and foreign committee. Mr. Mills in resigning says he is simply following out the line of action indicated in his former letter to Speaker Crisp, in which he declined to take second place on the committee of ways and means. He is willing, he says to serve in the ranks but does not desire a chairmanship.

The resolution indorsing President Harrison's administration, which was adopted at the republican convention of this congressional district held at Auburn, reads as follows: "We, the republicans of the Twelfth congressional district of Indiana in delegate convention assembled, pledge ourselves anew to the principles of the republican party and heartily endorse the administration of President Harrison as one which has been pure, patriotic and statesmanlike, and which has conduced to the prosperity and glory of our common country."

Mr. Holman, of Indiana, has introduced a bill which, if it should pass, would increase the circulation of pension money about five millions per annum. The first section of this bill is as follows: That there shall be allowed and paid to each and every noncommissioned officer, musician, artificer, wagoner, private soldier, sailor and marine, including those borne upon the rolls as slaves and Indians and all soldiers who were mustered into the service of the United States, and who were subsisted, clothed and paid by the government of the United States, who faithfully served as such in the military service of the United States, who have been honorably discharged from such service, the sum of eight and one-third dollars a month for all the time which such noncommissioned officer, musician, artificer, wagoner, private soldier, sailor and marine actually so served between the 12th day of April, 1861, and the 9th day of May, 1865.

The revision committee of the Presbyterian general assembly have concluded their labors, their last time on the closing day being devoted to the consideration of chapter 27 which was revised to read: "The Lord Jesus Christ is the only head of the church, and the claim of the pope of Rome or any other human authority to be the vicar of Christ and the head of the church universal is without warrant in Scripture or in fact, and is a usurpation dishonoring to the Lord Jesus Christ." This differs somewhat from the revision of the committee at Washington, before the general assembly, but in substance it is the same.

The first national convention of the democratic party to nominate candidates for the presidency and vice presidency was held in Baltimore in 1832, and "Old Hickory" was the unanimous choice of that convention. Baltimore retained the honor of being the place of presidential convocation of the national democracy until 1856, when it went to Cincinnati and nominated Buchanan and Breckenridge. It has been held at Baltimore twice since 1852, however in 1860 when the regular democrats nominated Stephen A. Douglas and in 1872 when it ratified the nomination of Greeley and Brown the nominees of the liberal republicans. Previous to 1832 nominations were made by party caucus.

Governor Boies, of Iowa, who is frequently spoken of as a presidential candidate is strongly opposed to the prohibition of the liquor traffic. In his inaugural address the other day he said: "I cannot avoid the conclusion that we legislate too much," was the first sentence of the address proper, and the governor proceeded to arraign the prohibitory laws of the state as having failed in their purpose, being disregarded by entire communities otherwise lawabiding and as making crimes of acts regarded as innocent by the best people of the civilized world. He insisted that the people in at least two gubernatorial elections had repudiated prohibition, and urged its immediate repeal as the duty of both parties.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The democratic national convention, for the nomination of candidates of our party for president and vice president of the United States, will be held at Chicago on the 21st day of June next. The contest for the place of holding the convention was an animated one. The large banquet hall of the Arlington hotel, at Washington, where the democratic national committee met, was crowded with spectators. The speakers who presented the claims of the various cities contesting for the convention were called alphabetically by states from California to Wisconsin. The orations were short, pithy and to the point, but few of the delegates consuming their alloted time. St. Paul closed the arguments, the last speech being made at 7 o'clock, and the committe took a recess until 9, when the balloting commenced. The first ballot resulted as follows:

New York, 5; San Francisco, 8, Milwaukee, 8, Cincinnati, 3; St. Paul, 7; Chicago, 1, Detroit, 2, Indianapolis, 2, Kansas City, 13.

After the fourteenth ballot there was a long interval. After a wait of nearly three-quarters of an hour it was announced that Chicago had won, the ballot being as follows:

Detroit, 1, Chicago, 27; St. Paul, 1; Milwaukee, 18, Kansas City, 2. Cincinnati and New York threw their votes to Chicago, while St. Paul stood by Milwaukee.

INDIANA'S CLAIMS.

Governor Chase Will Go to Washington This Week to Push Them.

Governor Chase and Private Secretary Roberts left Indianapolis today for Washington to push the matter of the United States government indebtedness to the state of Indiana on some old war claims, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. On the direct tax levied against the state during the war, the government has returned about $300,000, but the money outstanding is that voluntarily loaned the United States for war purposes prior to the general levy. The late Governor Hovey and ex-Deputy Auditor of State John W. Coons went to Washington early in last October for this purpose and succeeded in shaping matters in such a way that now it is a question of but a short time until the debt will be paid. Governor Chase has papers and documents that will strengthen the state's claim, and an early settlement is looked for. The governor and Secretary Roberts will consult with Winslow, Lanier & Co., of New York the state's financial agents in regard to the matter.

It is remarked by physicians that the present visitation of the various forms of disease now generally and indefinitely called grip is more serious than any previous visitation of this disease. "There are three varieties prevailing here," said a well known local physician, "the nervous, the catarrhal and the gastro intestinal. The nervous and intestinal are most frequent. The nervous variety is characterized by severe pains about the head, the catarrhal involves the respiratory organs. Among the sequela of the catarrhal grip is pneumonia, which is especially fatal to young children and aged persons. The gastro-intestinal type of grip is attended with diarrhea, and is less dangerous that the catarrhal. It is a matter of dispute as to whether or not there is a fourth form, to be called cardiac, as involving the heart. This is dangerous. In all cases of grip, however, the poison seems to have a peculiar affinity for the heart. Grip is specifically an infectious not a contagious disease. It is destroying more lives than any epidemic that has swept over the globe, more than cholera, but it does not excite the apprehension of the disease, as its manifestations are less trouble."

CAPT. WHITE'S SPEECH

Made at the Auburn Convention in Opposition to Harrison.

Hon J. B. White made a speech yesterday at the republican district convention held at Auburn, against the resolution indorsing Harrison's administration. He says it appears to partake of the nature of a bargain and sale. It is thus reported by the Daily Press:

Gentlemen:—It occurs to me that such a resolution is not in order at present. I did not see anything in the call for this convention relating to any such business. I understand it was called to elect a state committeeman and it is not in order to manufacture anything to be brought forward at this time. Had it been intended to bring it, it seems to me it would have been announced in the call that we might be prepared to approve or to disapprove of it. It appears to partake of the nature of a bargain and sale.

This resolution, if now passed, practically shuts the mouths forever afterwards of the republicans of this district who have declared themselves as opposed to the renomination of Harrison.

If President Harrison has served the people well and been faithful to his administration every republican is bound to express his approval of such administration. While not saying one word derogatory to the president, I for one do not wish to be tied up by the passage of such a resolution.

It is possible that we may all feel like renominating President Harrison when the proper time comes but it is also possible that some may have another candidate whom they would prefer, therefore we should not at present be tied up in this way.

I, for one, cannot do it. I cannot sit still and see him indorsed for the time may come when we will see our mistake. I do oppose it, especially at this particular time and place. We should first transact the business for which we are called here, then if we have any surplus time let such matters as this be brought before the convention. I do not wish to go into a rehash of all that has taken place since Harrison was elected, and move that we get down to business without further delay.

Here Senator Carver, of Angola, interrupted with the query:

Would it be proper to elect a committeeman who would not be willing to support the president?

I, for one, am here to say that Harrison has not done what he could for the republican party—he has not done his duty. This sentiment prevails throughout the state. Look back one year and see how the state went then—20,000 democratic. Are not these recent democratic victories evidences that he is not wanted? Had the state gone republican it would have been an indorsement of the administration.

His course has not been patriotic, neither has it been statesmanlike. He has not done his duty as president. He has solidified the enemy and divided our party. Now, I believe, however, if we get the right kind of a leader we can sweep the country.

It is the principles of the party we want to indorse, but I will not express my approval of the administration. I believe the resolution to be inopportune, and move that it be laid on the table."

Sunday School Workers.

To the Sunday School Superintendents and Teachers of Fort Wayne and Allen County:

This note is addressed to you, because upon you must depend, in a great measure, the success of efforts at Sunday school extension among those who at present are completely outside. A careful study of all the reports reveals the fact that in the central department of the American Sunday School Union, including Ohio, Indiana and the lower peninsula of Michigan, there are 1,210,483 children and youths between five and twenty-one years of age who are not even enrolled in any school for Bible teaching. I am commissioned, in company with others, to do all that can be done toward winning this vast company of strays. In this effort we have no authority to call in question the work of the humblest teacher in the smallest school. But we may invite co operation, and that is the purpose of the present note.

To reach the mass of outsiders two aims should constantly be cherished, namely, ever better and better teaching of the 1,266,817 pupils of all ages now under instruction, and a steadily increasing efficiency in recruiting those who are outside. And while there will be a call for a hundred thousand additional managers and teachers in these three states, yet very much must depend upon the spirit and success of the 173,503 already engaged. On behalf thereof, of the great multitude yet to be gathered in, I venture, though without any official authority over any officer or teacher, to invite your most prayerful and serious efforts in class and school. May not the 15,909 Sunday schools of this department rise to a higher drawing teaching and saving power. That such may be your success is the prayer of, Yours, sincerely

BORNEO'S BEAUTIES.

NOT CHARMING, VIEWED FROM THE CAUCASIAN STANDPOINT.

But on the Other Hand, They Regard White Women and Their "Toggery" with Wonder and Contempt. Notes of Travel in a Far Country.

[Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association.]

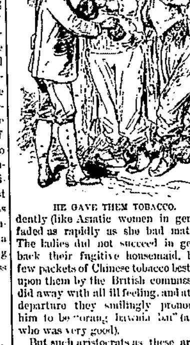
WHEN Mrs. Ker and I went to visit the Maharajah of Johore (a Mohammedan prince who reigns over the southern extremity of the peninsula of Malacca), at his beautiful palace on the seashore, we found that he was looked upon with some suspicion by his brother Moslems, as being guilty of the alarming heterodoxy of having only one wife instead of four. Whether he did so from choice, from the effect of his intimacy with his English neighbors at Singapore or simply because he found even one wife quite as much as he could manage, I have never been able to find out, but he did his best to make amends for this anti-Mussulman solecism by keeping the poor Maharanee as completely secluded as if she had been an entire harem.

In fact, throughout the whole of the Malay Archipelago (thanks to the supremacy of the Moslem creed and its attendant usages) women are either lapdogs or wolves—either the petted, pampered, useless toys of a wealthy Bluebeard, or the hardy and weatherbeaten prowlers of the forest, hunting, rowing or marching along with their husbands or brothers, and very often even more cruel and ferocious than they. Of the first class, the invisible wives of such great native princes as the rajahs of Deli and Tenom are probably very fair average specimens; of the second, samples enough will have been seen by any man who has penetrated into the Acheen mountains in Sumatra, or made his way up any of the great rivers of north Borneo.

But in some parts of the latter island there is a kind of intermediate class between these two extremes, formed by the native ladies, who are too important to be allowed to run wild in the jungle like their humbler sisters, and yet not quite important enough to be immured for life amid the luxurious idleness of a harem. It is by no means an uncommon thing for the wife of some leading Dyak penghulu (chief) to make a voyage "down stream" to one of the English stations, usually in order to reclaim a runaway female slave who has put herself under British protection. But whether she gets back her "contraband" or not the august visitor generally contrives to "make a big thing of it" by the presents that she receives from the English traders and officials. In this she is seldom fettered by any absurd scruples and does not by any means "beat about the bush" for some indirect method of asking for any object that may have taken her fancy. She simply points to it and says, "Saya mow ambilitu" (I want to take that), and in almost every case she does take it, sooner or later. But as a rule such gifts take the form of all others most acceptable to a lady of Malay race, viz., tobacco.

Toward the end of last year two of these Malay countesses presented themselves at the headquarters of an English official who was then making a kind of "progress" through the interior of north Borneo. They had come down the river in a boat in pursuit of an escaped slave and applied to the "Kapalla Inggrez" (English head man) to have her given back to them.

The two proved to be mother and daughter, the latter being named after the favorite daughter of Mohammed himself, Fatmeh, or Fatima (a name which, for that reason, is as common in the east as that of Mary in Christian lands), while her mamma rejoiced in the poetical title of Ghulaub (the rose). The young lady—who was still quite a girl in years—was rather pretty in spite of her coarse, lank hair and coffee colored complexion; but the mother had evidently (like Asiatic women in general) faded as rapidly as she had matured. The ladies did not succeed in getting back their fugitive housemaid, but a few packets of Chinese tobacco bestowed upon them by the British commissioner did away with all ill feeling, and at their departure they smilingly pronounced him to be "orang bawaia bai" (a man who was very good).



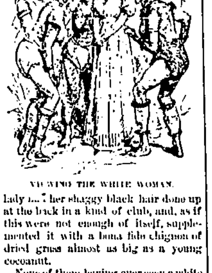
HE GAVE THEM TOBACCO.

But such aristocrats as these are the exception rather than the rule in that dreadful "utan" (jungle) which fills up almost the whole interior of the island, amid the deadly swamps and gloomy thickets of which the deer, and the serpent, and the buffalo, and the fierce, long armed, tawny "orang utan" (man of the woods) may still roam at their pleasure. The few human tenants of this hideous region are in perfect keeping with the grim solitudes which they inhabit, and it would be hard for any outsider, when looking for the first time at a group of Tingaras or Tunbunwhas to decide whether the palm of ugliness should be awarded to the women or to the men.

A few months ago, when the British governor of one of the coast settlements was paying a visit, accompanied by his wife, to the penghulu of Domingol—a large Dyak village several days' journey from the sea—a party of Tingaras came down the Kwarmotch from a region in which no European has ever set foot, the navigation of the higher river being obstructed by the Malay Niagara, which has lately been christened Alexandra falls, where the whole river plunges headlong over a precipice of 120 feet. The English official hearing of their coming, sent to invite them to a conference with him, but the Tingara gentlemen, who had evidently been doing something that would not bear inquiry, held a "bichara" (an untranslatable Malay word answering to the west African "palaver") to consider the matter, and finally decided, by the advice of a shrewd old chief, to keep their own skins out of harm's way and send a deputation of women in their stead.

Accordingly the ladies of the forest appeared in a body early one fine morning outside the Englishman's tent, and a very queer sight they were. Their toilet was not elaborate, consisting chiefly of a gray monkey skin around the loins, but its scantiness was amply atoned for by the profusion of native ornaments which they wore. Every woman of the group carried enough brass wire about her to fit up a telegraph station—brass wire around her neck, brass wire around her waist, brass wire around her wrists and ankles, and more brass wire still twisted in her hair, thrust through the lobes of her ears or fastened around the place where her forehead ought to have been if she had happened to have any.

One of the Tingara beauties who, being the wife of a chief, probably set the local fashions—seemed very proud of her headdress, which was a kind of coronet or tiara of large colored beads strung upon wires, placed on the crown of the head and hanging down like a fringe over the upper face. The same lady had her shaggy black hair done up at the back in a kind of club, and, as if this were not enough of itself, supplemented it with a bona fide chignon of dried grass almost as big as a young cocoanut.



VIEWING THE WHITE WOMAN.

None of them having ever seen a white woman before, the Tingara belles were aroused to a high pitch of excitement by their first view of the English lady, around whom they crowded with eager curiosity, pointing and chattering like a gang of excited monkeys, and examining her as closely as if she had been some newly discovered kind of wild beast. They inspected minutely the arrangement of her clothes and hair, and eyed both with an air of wondering contempt which plainly showed how vastly superior they considered their own toilet to be.

But to the eye of any outside observer this confidence would have seemed very ill founded. The gaunt, long armed, apelike forms of these Malay beauties; their greasy, dark brown skins; their coarse, straight, black hair; their bony, high cheeked, skull-like faces; their small, deep set, cunning, restless eyes, and their teeth, black as coal from the constant chewing of betel, were all hideous to the last degree. Nor was their aspect much improved by the frightful deformity of their ears, which, as is the custom with nearly all the inland tribes of Borneo and with some of the Sumatra Malays likewise, had been gradually dragged down by the weight of their heavy carrings of beads and brass wire till the tip of the fleshy part actually touched their shoulders!

But in spite of their hobgoblin aspect, these unwashed Eves of the Kwarmotch turned out to be very simple, harmless, good humored creatures, as easily amused as children and with even more than a child's love of sweets of every kind. They were hugely delighted with the supply of well sugared tea which was promptly set before them by their hostess, and devoured with every mark of satisfaction three or four big dishes of native cakes made of rice flour, sugar and cocoanut paste and strongly flavored with cinnamon. They expressed great surprise and delight at the prompt action of some wax matches which were shown to them, their own most usual way of striking a light being to scrape a dry chip of bamboo with a broken potsherd, and their joy knew no bounds when the lady presented them with a box of the wonderful "fire sticks" which they had just been admiring and had hailed with loud cries of "ilmu! ilmu!" (magic, magic).

Finally, after having received, as a parting gift two or three handfuls of cigarettes and a number of gay colored handkerchiefs, the "Blackhide Susans" went off in high glee. At their departure there was a general chorus of "Orang-orang, pooti orang-orang bai" (the white men are good men), and, as we afterward learned, they gave such a glowing account of their reception that I am daily expecting to hear of the opening of an Anglo-Tingara trade.

Prevention is Better

Than cure, and those who are subject to rheumatism can prevent attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is used by thousands with great success. It is the best blood purifier.

Constipation is caused by loss of the peristaltic action of the bowels. Hood's Pills restore this action and invigorate the liver.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

Narrow Escape of Engineer Jones and Fireman Patterson—Local and Personal Pick-ups.

Engine No. 165, which pulls the Plymouth accommodation, broke a side-rod while west-bound Wednesday evening. The locomotive was in charge of Engineer Hank Jones and Fireman George Patterson, whose escape from injury is miraculous. The broken rod hammered the heavy iron protection plate, which is now placed under the seats of the engineer and fireman, until the plate gave way, when the entire side of the cab was quickly demolished, as was also the foot board on the side of the boiler. At the first stroke of the rod on the plate the engineer and fireman beat a hasty retreat for the tender, where they remained until the train came to a stop. Had it not been for the protection plate under the seat, Fireman Patterson would certainly have been seriously injured, if not killed. No. 165 was brought in the shops for repairs this morning, and No. 156, recently repaired, is now hauling the accommodation.

THE OLD PORTAGE ROAD.

The Pennsylvania company is preparing to reopen the old Portage road across the Allegheny mountains near Pittsburg. This road was abandoned over thirty years ago and it is now proposed to make an air line route from Cresson to Petersburgh, and thus shorten by fifteen miles the distance between Pittsburg and Philadelphia. This will also give the company better facilities for world's fair business.

RELIEF DEPARTMENT STATEMENT.

The monthly bulletin of the Pennsylvania lines' voluntary relief department west of Pittsburg shows that in December eleven death benefits, 317 accident benefits and 797 sick benefits were paid, and at the close of the month there were 144 cases of accidents to be continued and 562 cases of sickness. The death benefits of the month amounted to $4,500, the accident benefits to $5,151 and the sickness benefits to $7,818.60, making the total disbursements of the month in benefits $18,719.60. This association has been in operation now thirty months, and has paid out to employes of the road in that time, in death benefits, $206,310, and in disablement benefits $276,699.82, making a total of disbursements of $482,009.82. Never in the history of this department has the membership been increasing as rapidly as at the present time. Until now it has been largely confined to the train and yardmen, but in the last two months, from all departments, the membership has been increasing, the additions exceeding 200 since the first of this year.

MINOR MENTION.

Fred Fisher, of the Organ factory, is down with grippe.

Andy Huber, of the Pittsburg planing mills, is sick and off duty.

George Haswell, of the Organ factory, is enjoying a vacation out of the city.

Mike Hogan now operates a bolt cutter in the Pittsburg car shop, having been promoted yesterday.

J. Huhn and A. McCumsy, employed in the Pittsburg round house, are off duty on account of sickness.

The car inspectors' quarters, under the Pittsburg freight office, have been provided with a heating apparatus.

J. R. Reniff, of Toledo, has been appointed master car builder of the western branches of the Lake Shore system.

Foreman George Judy, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, is on duty this morning, having recovered from the grip.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe company will expend $2,500,000 in improving their road bed and rolling stock this year.

H. C. Harriett, a popular young engineer, of Grand Rapids, was the guest of his lady friend in the east side, Tuesday evening.

The National Railway Clerks' association now has a membership of 1,100, distributed at sixteen different railway centers. The association is less than two years old. The railway stenographers are now organizing at various places, with a view of establishing a national association.

The Eureka Transportation company, of Kansas City, have just placed an order with the Litchfield car works for 1,000 box cars.

The Pennsylvania company will build for its western branches seventy five passenger coaches during the next twelve months.

Tomorrow the Nickel Plate general offices in Cleveland will occupy handsome quarters in the Hickox block, on Euclid avenue.

The local freight agents' association held a semi-monthly meeting at the rooms of the railroad Y M C A yesterday afternoon.

Seventy-five Lake Shore engineers and firemen are sick with the grip at Elkhart. The trainmaster has to hustle to man his trains.

George Geerken, boilermaker in the the Pittsburg shop, is suffering with a severe attack of quinsy. P W Baches, of the same department, is also quite ill.

General Car Inspector Miller, of the Nickel Plate, with headquarters in Cleveland, was looking after the affairs of the company in this city yesterday.

S. Bowser, of the Pittsburg freight house, had his right hand badly crushed yesterday by having a heavy box fall upon it. Dr. Kesler dressed the member.

H. A. Philley, clerk for A. H. Polhamus, road foreman of engines, is confined to his bed by sickness. Harry Polhamus is now aiding his father in the office work.

B. J. Johnson, axle turner in the Pittsburg car shop, returned to work this morning, stating that he had been putting in the past two days in singing lullabies to a new girl baby.

B. R. McCollough, general passenger and ticket agent of the of the Texas Pacific, died at Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday. The body will be taken to Sidney, Ohio, for interment.

C. H. Walton, superintendent of the Muskingum Valley road, who was here attending the funeral of his nephew, left for his home last evening, going via Chicago and the Panhandle.

F. A. Young, who is now firing a switch engine in the Lake Shore yards at Toledo, has been visiting his parents in this city for a couple of days. He formerly worked in the Nickel Plate roundhouse.

John Handenschield, the Pittsburg boilermaker, and Miss Sophia Kneemoeller were married at 5 o'clock last evening, by Rev Schaaf. The couple have gone to housekeeping on South Harrison street.

Wm. Crighton, foreman at the Kerr Murray Manufacturing company, has been granted a valuable patent for "sliding gate valve," which was procured by Dr. E B Clark, solicitor of patents, Washington, D. C.

Muncie Times: "Conductor Ben Stonecifer is off duty celebrating his birthday today at his home in Fort Wayne. Tomorrow he and his wife will go to Anderson to visit Mrs. S.'s parents, Mr. and Mrs H. M. Keltner."

Mrs. Gyre, wife of the carpenter in the east shop, is somewhat improved in health, but she will probably be bed fast for about six months, her trouble being in her right limb. Dr. Boswell, the attending physician, speaks hopefully of her final recovery.

Henry Langohr, who operates a flue cleaner in the Pittsburg copper shop, narrowly escaped a horrible fate yesterday. A part of the machinery caught his clothing and in an instant his pants were stripped from his nether limbs, leaving him unharmed, but in a rather embarrassing position for a modest young man. He borrowed a pair of overalls and hastened home for a garment more suited to the chilly air.

The old cow shed along the line of the Lake Erie and Western road in "Muncie," which served the company as a depot for many years, is to be razed in the near future and in its place erected a magnificent building fashioned after the pretty little depot building in this city, but on a much larger scale. It will be located in a manner more convenient to the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville trains. The offices of Trainmaster Crosby, Roadmaster Hoban, Dispatchers Wilson and Harlan, Lineman Myers, Inspector Dooley and others from the two roads will be on the second floor of the new building.

Agent John Ross, of the Pennsylvania, entertained a distinguished party of guests yesterday. They were all traveling passenger agents, among them being C. C. Mordough, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St Paul; O Warner, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; C. S. G. Hough, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, A. G. Robinson, Chicago and Alton, and Charles Traver, Chicago and Northwestern.

Some of the Pittsburg engineers and firemen, who were on the sick list, are returning to work and affairs on the road begin to assume a more cheerful aspect. Engineer T Ryan and Fireman L. G. Dailey reported for duty this morning, and others are expected to show up this evening. Grand Rapids Firemen J. E. Hunt, G. J. Beckstine and E. Pedgen also reported for duty today. Engineer I. Burger, of the Pittsburg, was placed on the sick list.

The Emmett Dramatic club will hold a business meeting this evening.

She—What is writer's cramp, anyway?
He—As a general thing it is indistinguishable from what they call the pangs of hunger.—Life.

He Might Have Known.

"Say, boy!" called out an excited man of middle age, rushing from one of the tall office buildings on Dearborn street yesterday afternoon, "what will you take for your whole stock of those infernal things?"

The boy had been standing on the sidewalk in front of the building all day rasping a calliope whistle back and forth across his mouth, stopping only when somebody wanted to buy one and beginning again with renewed energy when the sale was completed.

He counted up the whistles he had on hand, made a rapid mental calculation and replied:

"I'll take a dollar 'naf fur de lot."

"If I buy all you've got will you go away from here and not come back any more?" asked the excited man.

"Sure! I go out o' de business."

"Hand 'em over. Hold on! I want the one you're blowing, too! Here's your money."

"All right, boss! Here's de goods."

He turned over his entire stock, pocketed his $1.50 and disappeared.

The middle aged man went inside the building with his haul of calliope whistles, and a few minutes later he was at his desk near one of the front windows in the third story. The wooden whistles, broken to fragments, were in his wastebasket, and a look of peace, to which he had long been a stranger, was on his face.

* * * * * * *

Fifteen minutes had passed away—fifteen quiet, peaceful, happy minutes.

Then a weird, horrible, agonizing yet strangely familiar sound broke on his ear.

He raised the window and looked out.

The sidewalk directly below was black with a struggling mass of boys. Each boy was loaded down with calliope whistles and each was blowing one of the instruments of torture with all his might. The uproar was frightful and getting worse every moment.

Then the peaceful, happy look faded out of that middle aged man's face. He shut down the window, closed his desk, put on his hat and overcoat, went out of the building by the back stairs and faded away presently in the gloom of Randolph street.

He had made the mistake of his life.—Chicago Tribune.

Justice.

There was once a robber in Cairo who fell from the second story of a house he was trying to enter and broke his leg (said Charles Dudley Warner recently at the Aldine club on story teller's night). He went to the cadi and complained. The man's window was badly made and he wanted justice. The cadi said that was reasonable, and he summoned the owner of the house. The owner confessed that the house was poorly built, but claimed that the carpenter was to blame and not he.

This struck the cadi as sound logic, and he sent for the carpenter. "The charge is, alas, too true," said the carpenter, "but the masonry was at fault and I couldn't fit a good window." So the cadi, impressed with the reasonableness of the argument, sent for the mason. The mason pleaded guilty, but explained that a pretty girl in a blue gown had passed the building while he was at work, and that his attention had been diverted from his duty. The cadi thereupon demanded that the girl be brought before him.

"It is true," she said, "that I am pretty, but it's no fault of mine. If my gown attracted the mason, the dyer should be punished and not I." "Quite true," said the cadi, "send for the dyer." The dyer was brought to the bar and pleaded guilty. That settled it. The cadi told the robber to take the guilty wretch to his house and hang him from the doorsill, and the populace rejoiced that justice had been done. But pretty soon the crowd returned to the cadi's house, complaining that the dyer was too long to be properly hanged from his doorsill. "Oh, well," said the cadi, who by that time was suffering with ennui, "go find a short dyer and hang him. Justice shall prevail."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Catarrh is not a local but a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

New York blue stone-cutters and flaggers want $4 and eight hours on April 1.

I was troubled with catarrh for several years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so-called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical. Clarence L. Huff, Biddeford, Me.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

La Grippe!

The tendency of this disease toward pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La Grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. This remedy effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. Twenty-five cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by all druggists.

TO WEAK MEN Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

Masonic Temple.

Charles T Ellis, the popular actor, will present "Casper, the Yodler," at the Masonic Temple tonight. Mr. Ellis has a graceful and pleasant bearing which attracts his audiences the moment he appears upon the stage.

The beautiful military play "Held by the Enemy," a story of the late war, will be presented at the Masonic Temple tomorrow night. It has had remarkable success. The play in plot, execution, dramatic effect and thrilling climaxes is more than its managers modestly claim for it. It has a story of intense interest, pure and refined in tone, told of one of the most thrilling events of American history, and placed before the public in a manner which only careful attention and a large outlay of money can secure.

Walter Sanford's company in "My Jack" will be presented at the Masonic Temple Monday, Jan 25. "My Jack" is of the melo-dramatic order. It is a healthy play, possessing honest sentiment, pathos and touching into sympathetic harmony the tenderest cords of our nature.

The Chicago Ideals is announced for one concert in this city Wednesday, Jan 27.

For Sale.

Among many curious souvenirs of the French revolution, M. Welschinger quotes in "Les Almanachs de la Revolution" a notice of the sale of the "properties" of the Theatre des Troubadours. M. Leger, the proprietor, was evidently a man who could lose money cheerfully and make a joke for his own consolation. His announcement read thus:

The Citizen Leger, director, actor and dramatist of the Theatre des Troubadours, having perceived for a long time that his receipts did not equal expenses, notifies the public that he will sell immediately and at a bargain:

Item—A sea, consisting of twelve waves, the twelfth of which is larger than the others, and a little damaged.

Item—A dozen and a half clouds edged with black and in good repair.

Item—A rainbow, somewhat faded.

Item—A beautiful snowstorm of flakes of Auvergne paper.

Item—Three bottles of lightning.

Item—A setting sun, worth little, and a new moon, rather old.

Item—A plume which has been worn only by Œdipus and the Duke of Essex.

Item—Othello's handkerchief and a pasha's mustache.

Item—Cleopatra's asp.

Item—A complete repast, consisting of four cardboard entrees, a cardboard pie and fowl of the same material, several oak bottles and a wax dessert.

Item—Five yards of tin chain, the clanking of which is beautiful and causes torrents of tears to flow.

No Good Reason.

Pretty Cousin—Your friend, Dr. Lancet, passed me down town today without even a bow.

He—Oh, well, you know he's awfully absentminded. He's so completely devoted to his surgical practice.

Pretty Cousin—But that's no reason why he should cut me.—New York Herald.

"AN INVALUABLE MEDICINE."

DEAR MADAM:

You speak of using my recent letter as a testimonial; you are perfectly welcome to do so—would that I could influence all suffering women to give your compound a fair trial. I must say to you that it is an invaluable medicine, and, if used according to directions, will prove a certain cure for the diseases it is recommended for. It has been very, very beneficial to myself and daughter.

Sincerely Yours,
MRS. S. BEAN, cor. Church and Park Sts.,

Last evening there was a complete surprise upon Mr. B. F. Stonecifer, of East DeWald street, it being his forty-first birthday. Ninety seven persons partook of a bountiful supper prepared for them. Mr. Stonecifer was presented with a beautiful combined book case and writing desk. Mr. Trythall made the presentation speech. Mr. Stonecifer was so surprised that he could only respond by thanking them kindly. The evening was spent with music and games until after midnight, when the crowd left for their homes.

Miss Neally Stevens, the celebrated Chicago pianist, gave an artistic musical treat at the Y. M. C. A. hall last evening, to a cultured audience that was not so large as the lady's playing merited. Miss Stevens has few equals. At her magic touch the instrument gave forth music that was divine to listen to. Her technique and charming modulation attested to her superior ability as an artist. Besides being a fine pianist, Miss Stevens is a beautiful and graceful woman, whose presence impresses an audience at once.

John Gilbert, local manager of the Standard Oil company, who has been helpless with paralysis at his home, 246 West Washington street, since last May, is recovering partial use of his limbs. He can walk several paces when supported between two persons, can raise his arms, and when lying in bed can turn himself without assistance, but he is still as helpless as a babe. During all the months since he was stricken down, Mr. Gilbert's mental faculties remained unimpaired, his mind being even more vigorous than before, and instead of letting his affliction cast him down in spirits he has borne it with a cheerful and hopeful disposition. His friends will be gratified over his steady recovery, and their hope will be that it will continue.

Jacob Haas, of the Fort Wayne Iron works, has been sent by the company to Blakesley, Ohio, to superintend the erection of an engine.

Bible class for study of international Sunday school lesson conducted at the city Y M C A tonight by Prof. Patterson, of Taylor university.

President Reade and Professor Patterson were both at Monroeville last week, former assisting in the revival meetings and the latter in the teachers' institute.

The state board of education was in session at the capitol yesterday, with State Superintendent Vories. All the members were present with one exception. They met to consider the matter of questions for state license. Governor Chase was present for the first time.

Rev J. P. Nash, of Monroeville, a friend of Taylor university, has added to his former gifts to the institution three valuable books. President Reade also has presented to the library a large and beautiful pulpit Bible containing the old and new versions and Dores' illustrations.

A very pleasant time was had last Thursday afternoon and evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Cox, 153 Hanna street, when members of the family gathered home to assist their mother to celebrate her fiftieth birthday. It was a surprise arranged by the children and the whole family represented a very pretty group. After having had a delightful time and partaking of an elegant repast, they departed for their homes wishing mother many more happy birthdays.

The sleighing party of the International Business college, given last night, was a surprising success. About 7:30 o'clock forty of the students left the college en route to New Haven, and arriving there, engaged the whole lower floor of the little hotel, which they occupied until a late, or rather an early hour. The had two large 'bus sleighs, and several who were so unfortunate as to be left, had to procure private rigs. Taking it altogether, it was a great success in every sense of the word.

The old scheme is being revived, once fathered by Congressman Orth, looking to improvement of the Wabash river and the construction of a canal which will connect with the Kankakee river and Lake Michigan, making both rivers navigable for small vessels. It is proposed to ask congress for an appropriation of $1,000,000 as a starter. The main idea is to reclaim thousands of acres of marsh land lining the Kankakee river. The proposed improvement will cost several millions of dollars.

Last evening being the occasion of the semi-annual inventory of stock at the People's store, the employes were invited by the firm to partake of a sumptuous repast served in first-class style by Mine Host Humphrey, at the Aldine hotel. Those present at the feast of good things were: Messrs A. Mitchell, of Norwich, Conn.; Henry Beadell, Harry Robinson, H. E. Fisher, Lee Austin, H Steir, W S Cramp, W. Wintle, J. Hetrick, D. S. Griffith, J. W Steinbach, C. Weber, J. Rumber, and Misses Fitzpatrick, Leonard, Dudenhoefer, Stewart, Kaag, Ehinger, Lang, Hughes, O'Brien, Brodt, Connors, Haverly, Kirkham, and Boylan.

The fire commissioners and a special council committee, consisting of Messrs. Michael and Huser, met last night with the mayor, city attorney and Fire Chief Henry Hilbrecht at the council chamber and talked about the threatened suit against Fort Wayne of a man named Walker, who claims that the tripper in use at the engine houses for unharnessing the horses and opening the doors, is an infringement on his patent. Indianapolis and Logansport settled with the patentee and suits are pending against other cities, including Chicago. The matter was laid over till next week and in the meantime Lawyer Ross, of Logansport, who is attorney for Walker, will be consulted. An early settlement is looked for.

A venerable Indian chief, one of the last survivors of the famous tribe of Pottawatomies, is lying at the point of death at Indian Grove, a little settlement in St Joseph county. The old warrior is believed to be 106 years old. For the past thirty or forty years he has lived with a small colony of Indians at this historic place, but death has thinned the ranks of the tribe until but one Indian, an aged squaw, remains to relate the traditions of pioneer days. Several hundred graves of the members of the tribe are scattered through this county. This once powerful tribe held strong dominion from the Wabash to the shores of Lake Michigan. James Godfrey, the Miami chief who resides south of the city, was a personal friend of the dying chief.

Mrs. Henry Rehling, of East Lewis street, was surprised by a number of her friends yesterday afternoon, the party being arranged so quietly that the first intimation she had of it was when the guests marched into her house at 3 o'clock. The jolly hostess was equal to the occasion, however, and soon made every guest feel "at home." An elegant supper was provided. Among those present were: Mesdames D. E Rehling, Louis Rehling, H. Shepman, Ernest Rehling, M. Meyers, P. Daseler, Otto Herbst, C. Stegner, H Dicke, W D Meyers, H Wiegman, W. Hensel, C Gerken, H. Linemeyer, P. Kayser, C Rodenbeck, W Pryer, Misses Dora Daseler and Anna Hensel, Mrs. Wehrst and Mrs. Ferbinger.

SEVERAL MISHAPS.

Mrs. Fairbank and Daughter Thrown From a Sleigh This Morning—Other Accidents.

This morning, while Mrs. Clark Fairbank and little daughter were enjoying a sleigh ride, the runners of the sleigh caught in the street railway tracks near the corner of Creighton avenue and Fox street causing it to upset and throwing the occupants to the icy pavement. Fortunately they were not injured. The horse became frightened and ran away, taking a westerly course to Broadway, and thence south. The sleigh was wrecked.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

John Coleman, of the Nickel Plate round house was internally injured by a fall and is now confined to the bed.

The two-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs Henry Piepenbrink, of Lillie street, fell and dislocated her elbow.

Mr Gerard, of the Pittsburg shops, had one hand badly injured by the steam hammer this morning.

HEARTS MADE HAPPY.

Several Couples Joined for Life in the Bonds of Wedlock.

Justice Wilkinson yesterday united in marriage Harvey Sprague and Miss Della Potts. Mr and Mrs Sprague will reside on a farm in Madison township.

Fred Reichelsderfer and Miss Sarah Betts, both of Maysville, were married last night by Justice Ryan. Mr. Reichelsderfer is a popular citizen of Maysville and the young woman was popular in the society of that town. The best wishes of many friends are extended to them.

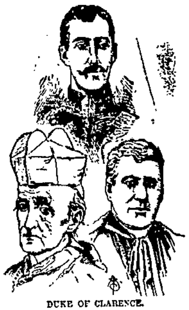
Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock occurred the marriage of Miss Emma Koehlinger to Harry Kronmiller, a well known and popular moulder at the Kerr Murray works, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. M. Boggs, of the Third Presbyterian church. The happy young people left for the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Koehlinger at New Haven, where in the evening a pleasant reception was given them to which a number of guests were invited. The young people will reside at No. 5 Tabor street in this city.

THREE NOTABLE DEATHS.

They Excited Extra Comment Because They Occurred Close Together.

The deaths of Cardinal Manning, Cardinal Simeoni and the Duke of Clarence, oldest son of the Prince of Wales, within a few hours of one another have excited the superstitious. It does seem to be a fact that there is a cycle of deaths, as it were—that is, after a long interval several eminent men die about the same time. Every American knows of course that John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died on July 4, 1826, just fifty years after they signed the Declaration of Independence, but it is not so generally known that James Monroe, fifth president, also died on the 4th of July, in 1831. Ex-Vice President Hamlin died July 4, 1891.

As only twenty presidents have died, and there are 365 days in the year, it is evident that the chances are eighteen to one against the death even of one on a given day, and on the principles of permutation several hundred to one against two dying on the same day. It is not at all surprising, therefore, that the deaths of Adams and Jefferson led their contemporaries to conclude that heaven had sealed its approval of their work. In the case of the two cardinals, however, the coincidence is perfectly simple. Both were old and rapidly declining in strength; there came a season of unusual severity, and the rest was but natural. The Duke of Clarence was young, it is true, but in the popular phrase he "had no constitution."



DUKE OF CLARENCE.
MANNING. SIMEONI.

The winter of 1891-2 will long be remembered for the prevalence of the grip and other forms of influenza, and every neighborhood will have its local traditions of old and delicate people who succumbed, and this is the true explanation of those "cycles of death." For several seasons there is no epidemic; the air is salubrious and the general conditions of life easy. Hence there is, as it were, an accumulation of the feeble who have, in a certain sense, lived beyond their time. Then comes a season of severe trial, and all the very feeble die. It is interesting, to some extent saddening, but not at all mysterious.

IF there has ever been a moment when the utterances which are attributed to the Emperor William in his recent address to the military would be the most ill-advised possible, this is the time. With all Europe full of discontent, with the whole world seething with revolt against kingly authority, the Emperor reasserts the doctrine of absolute dominion such as obtained in the old Roman days. To proclaim boldly that he as Emperor owns his subjects, body and soul, was hardly tolerated in the time of the Cæsars; will it be accepted in Germany today?

Speech Restored by the Grip.

ECKERTY, Jan. 22.—Peter Gottfried, of Wickliffe, in Patoka township, ever since his return from the war in 1865 has been able to speak only in a wheezing whisper, until quite recently, when he was seized by the grip. Recovery from the attack brought a return of his voice, and he talks loudly, although hoarsely. Mr. Gottfried is very happy over the recovery of his voice and never tires of using it.

NOTICE—

To owners of property abutting on lot 7, Hanna's addition.

To owners of property abutting on Barr street near the New York, Chicago and Saint Louis railway.

You and each of you are hereby notified that the common council has by resolution declared a necessity for the said improvements in the manner and form hereinafter stated.

And for the purpose of giving you and each of you and all others interested herein, an opportunity to be heard and [illegible] any objections you may have as to the necessity for the making and construction of said improvement, the council has ordered a meeting of a special committee thereof to be held in the council chamber in the city of Fort Wayne, February 5, 1892, at 7:30 o'clock p. m. to hear your said objections and to report the same to the common council of which you will all take due notice.

The nature and character of each particular improvement is as follows: The sidewalk on the north side of Wayne street, abutting on lot 7, Hanna's addition be graded to a width of 17 feet and paved with stone flagging 8 feet long and 4 inches thick.

A 1 foot double ring brick sewer with the necessary manholes, catchbasins and connections be constructed on Barr street, from the brick sewer now constructed on the south side of the New York, Chicago and Saint Louis railroad to the brick sewer on the north side of said railroad.

By order of the common council.

[illegible], City Clerk.
